

Get more done...faster

The water industry is headlong into transformational times.

With the rise of One Water, Utilities of the Future, a changing climate and ever-evolving regulations, it's clear that things are moving fast in the water industry. The challenge of staying current on best practices, connecting with key stakeholders and leveraging the latest innovations calls for a faster way to work together.

That's why major industry organizations, including NACWA, AMWA, WRF and utilities around the country have come together to support the launch of the WaterXchange!

WaterXchange.org

Get more done...faster

WaterXchange is a secure, members-only network designed solely for the water community. Like-minded professionals from public water, wastewater and stormwater utilities, associations and research organizations can share industry-specific documents, videos, blog conversations, and more!

Connect

Follow organizations, groups, or people to keep pace on the latest trends and technologies.

Discover

Search this private platform (exclusive to the water industry) for quick access to relevant results.

Share

Post your insights and work products to help WX members get more done...faster!

Here's how to get started

Get the Go-Ahead

It's an organization's decision to join WaterXchange, so the leadership team will need to give the go-ahead to join this community.

Get Registered

The leadership team assigns a WX administrator, who registers the organization and manages its page, groups and people on the WaterXchange.

Get on Board

Once an organization is all set up, staff begin building their profiles. The more people that get on WaterXchange, the more useful it becomes for all members!

Start your free 90-day trial

An annual subscription is $600, and your organization can experience the power of this members-only social network free for 90 days. If your organization would like to continue its membership after the 90-day trial period ends, the credit card on file will be charged.

WaterXchange.org is a non-profit organization endorsed by NACWA, AMWA, and WRF.