

Congratulations

Association of Metropolitan Water Agencies 40th Anniversary

July 12, 2021

As Mayor of Washington, DC, it is my sincere pleasure to extend congratulations to the Association of Metropolitan Water Agencies (AMWA), on the occasion of your 40th Anniversary.

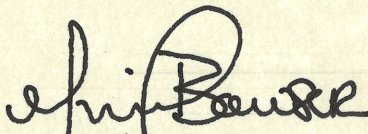

Founded in 1981, AMWA is a non-profit organization representing 200 of the country's largest metropolitan water utilities, including DC Water and the Washington Aqueduct.

AMWA champions safe and secure water supplies, efficient utility management and operations, and effective public communication on drinking water quality. It has been at the forefront of transformative legislation, including the Water Infrastructure Finance and Innovation Act (WIFIA) of 2014 that established a new source of low-cost loan financing for major water infrastructure projects.

Under the leadership of Chief Executive Officer Diane VanDe Hei, AMWA has worked alongside its members and board of directors to ensure access to safe and affordable clean drinking water for all. I thank the Association of Metropolitan Water Agencies for your dedication, commitment, and resolve to enhance our collective quality of life.

On behalf of the 712,000 residents of Washington, DC, you have my best wishes for a

HAPPY 40th ANNIVERSARY!

Muriel Bowser
Mayor, Washington, DC
